Women Loan Workers Needed

THE METROPOLITAN CANVASS COMMITTEE, which draws a net through the city for Liberty Loan subscriptions, yesterday issued a new call for 100,000 additional volunteer workers. Women especially are needed to serve in this emergency and help rescue the city from the shame of undersubscription. Stenographers, typists and clerks are required, as well as sales managers and selling agents. Workers able to handle groups and to organize local drives will be doubly welcomed.

Volunteers should enroll at any one of the sixty-nine precinct headquarters in Manhattan, Brooklyn and The Bronx. The location of these offices can be learned at the nearest police station, The committee can use those who can only give an evening or two a week as well as those who register for full time service until the campaign ends Sleeping Partners," a farce comedy from the French of Sacha Guitry. With H. B. Warner and Irene Bordoni. Staged by George Marion. Presented by John D. Williams.

tremely nice picture without any parand men, how to control night work ticular reason for being, save that it French extraction. It is a farce-"Sleeping. Partners" is of pure is filled with spontaneity and the joy comedy of the boulevards of a Paris of living. Tom Moore, as the leading unsobered by the war, an adaptation man, helps things along considerably. from the French "Faisons Un Reve," The story tells of two young people by Sacha Guitry. Sophisticated, risque

The story tells of two young people who run away and marry simply because they are in love with each other. Jimmy is still at school and Ruth should have been, only her stern aunt made her stay at home and wash dishes.

So one day Ruth and Jimmy are made one, and then Jimmy had to go home on his vacation. Home was with a guardian, only the guardian happened to have died and lett a firtatious widow, who insists that Jimmy make his home with her. The part of the widow, Mrs. Rice, is exceedingly well played by Marie de Wolfe.

Ruth soon joins her husband in the home of Mrs. Rice, is exceedingly well played by Marie de Wolfe.

Ruth soon joins her husband in the home of Mrs. Rice, and naturally she is not as happy as she might be, but it all turns out right in the end, and, anyway, there wasn't any plot nor any suspense. It is just a thoroughly entertaining story, well produced and delightfully acted.

Theda Bara opened last night at the Ferty-fourth Street Theatre in "Salome." At the Rialto Lila Lee is playing in "Such a Little Pirate." At the Broadway Violet Mersereau is appearing in "Together." These will be reviewed to-morrow.
